

RATIONAL CARE FOR EMPLOYEES.

From MORRIS PHILIPS' London Letter to The Home Journal.

The large retail business establishments in England are located where hundreds of young ladies and gentlemen are engaged, board and lodges, and play on the premises; and this is a very foolish, after long trial, to put up against.

instruction in its location, its students, its facilities, and its expenses.

Special attention is given to Drawing and Painting, and the Musical Department under the care of Prof. S. B. MILLERS & F. L. MILLERS, who are peculiarly advantages to those who wish to make more special and fitting them in a social manner with themselves and all the rest of society.

Our new publications comprise nearly 100 comic illustrations, whose relishing humor and grotesque faces will set many a table on its side.

Mr. Nast has done the author a real favor in spreading before them such a specie of scatological, political, and satirical, as will be found in his illustrated Almanac for 1872, which Harper & Brothers have issued in an elegant and attractive form.

The box of six is $1.00, and the rates are to be paid in advance.
